COL. JO LANE STERN LOOKS THEM OVER

Inspector-General Seems to Be Pleased With Troops at Camp Sale.

IDEAL WEATHER CONTINUES

Thousands of People Are Expected to Witness To-Day's Manoeuvres.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Camp Sale, Culpeper, Va., July 28.— Ideal weather conditions and the many exercises scheduled each day are being faithfully carried out. Colonel Jo Lane Stern, Inspector-General of State troops, is making his regular annual Inspection this year during the encampment, and it is believed that he is finding satisfactory conditions, notwithstanding his frequent notations in a little book, which he is carrying in pened yesterday. A horse ridden by an enlisted man at parade, became frightened and bolted for the stables, losing the rider, whose ankle was broken in the fall. Major Parker, the regimental surgeon, was early on the seene, and rendered the necessary medical attention.

ing the circumstances surrounding the death of the young man, gave a certificate of accidental growning, helding that an inquest under the circumsissioned officer of the First Regiments are that rider must be a commissioned officer of the First Regiment, that he must ride the same horse as is used by him in his military capacity, and he must ride with hits complete military equipment, including side arms. The course is being laid off in triangular shape, and the race will be in full view of the camp and surrounding hills. The prize is a piece of silver, suitably inscribed. Bets are being made on numerous favorites, with Colonel Perry and Major Price in the lead.

Colonel Charles H. Consolvo, the Paymaster-General, from Norfolk, is expected in camp to-morrow for the purpose of paying off, which will require several thousand dollars.

To-night a compilmentary german was given at the armory in Cuipeper in honor of the daughter of General Vaughan, and invitations were issued to the younger set of -ulpeper and vicinity.

A general court-martial has been ordered for the trial of an enlisted man for insubordination, Major King being named as president and Captain Wallace as judge-advocate.

To-morrow the big manoeuvre is planned, Great secrecy is being observed as just what is to happen. But the event is being discussed with great interest by all connected with the camp and also by all citizens of Culpper, and it is anticipated that several thousand people will witness the exercises.

With tank cars loaned by the Southern Cotton Oil Company arrangements have been made to haul water from the Catawba fliver, twelve miles away, and by Tuesday next a regular system of water trains will be running. The insurance companies announce a refusal to renew fire policies. The city is employing squads of men to patrol each ward as watchmen.

The ministers have issued a call for the people to gather hourly and pray for rain.

from high prices for wearing apparel. They will not be influenced by scientific arguments that may be presented. They will only regard the fact that they might have received benefit from the bill had it been signed. They will hold the President and his party responsible for what they regard as a failure to give them hoped-for relief. They will not forget by the next presidential election, either. In point of numbers the masses will predominate over the manufacturers and others who are praying for a veto.

Will Create Terrific Split.

The President is being told that his veto will bring to a crisis the split that now exists in the party. It will create a direct issue, giving the Insurgents, headed by Senator La Pollette, the opportunity they have longed for to oppose the President within their own party, or outside, if they wish. The Insurgents will be compelled to go to the people of their States with the question whether they are right or the President is right. That would mean, it is predicted, that the Insurgent West, many of the States which now seem inclined to support the President for re-election, will stand by the Senators who voted for downward revision of the wool schedule. Senator La Follette's support for the presidential nomination would increase tremendously.

The Insurgents would not be able to defeat Mr. Taft's nomination, but the feeling will have reached such a point. It is declared, that when he boilds the palm of victory in his hands it will be after a walk out in, the convention, pressging the carrying of the fight upon him by former members of his own party to the polls in the following November.

It is conceded to-day that the Democrats, recognizing that they have now practically achieved the splitting of the Republican party, will have wisdom enough to cinch that split for all time by trying to astree upon a compromise tariff bill that w'll receive the subject of the Insurgents hall have tend manufacture to the support of the president is being told insurgent opposition to him has been f
